FAMILY GETS LIVELIHOOD BY EATING OUT OF GARBAGE CAN

Deplorable Case of Rust Family Is Brought to Attention of Humane Office Father Is Out of Employment.

Children Are Attending School and Have Barely Enough to Eat to Sustain Life—Probation Officer Here.

Eating out of garbage cans, the father out of work, and apparently not inclined to make any great effort to secure employment, is the deplorable condition of a Rust family of four children, which has been brought to the attention of the local humane office.

The children are attending the school and although the father has on several occasions been provided with employment he has shown a decided disinclination to provide for the needs of his family by keeping a job.

The family formerly lived in this city where the father was employed as janitor of the Washington school.

County Probation officer Andrew McMahon will be in Richmond today and this is one of the cases which he will be called upon to adjust.

Some time ago the cities of the Bay region, including Richmond, Oakland, Berkeley, Sacramento, Alameda and Marysville, entered into an agreement that paupers who drift from one town to another and derive their livelihood from the charity extended to them from various institutions and the county or city funds, should be returned to the cities where they originally lived before being overtaken by pauperism.

Reverend D. W. Calfee of this city was appointed on the committee by Mayor Mott of Oakland. The above cited case is a similar one. The family will likely be returned to Richmond where it will be cared for.

Several other cases will occupy the attention of the humane officer on his visits here today.

Mrs. T. Kremer, apartment house owner of the west side, is reported better following a slight illness.

Rogers of the Concord and Martinez Interurban railway for the purpose of viewing the proposed right of way through the viaduct asked for by the railway company.

County Supervisor Ralph Arnold has prepared a sketch of the viaduct, showing the highway and the right of way for the electric line. The sketch also shows a proposed change which might be adopted in the event that the board decided to grant the right of way and which would lessen the chances of any danger that might exist as a result of the increased traffic.

Secretary Garrison Resigns.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—President Wilson accepted the resignation of Secretary Garrison, and formal announcement is expected without delay.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Lindley M. Garrison, secretary of war, has tendered his resignation to President Wilson. It is understood that it will be accepted, although comment is withheld at the White House.

Mr. Garrison is said to have determined to quit the cabinet when it became apparent that his continental army plan would not meet the approval of Congress.

Reports of the resignation were circulated late today after the secretary had announced that he would not deliver an address on national defense before the Chamber of Commerce of the United States as had been expected. Immediately afterward he and Mrs. Garrison left for New York and it was said at the War Department that it would be for an indefinite stay.

The Philippine bill, passed by the senate recently, is understood to have been another reason for Secretary Garrison's decision. He objected strongly to the Clarke amendment incorporated in the Philippine bill, providing for independence of the islands in from two to four years.

OPPOSITION TO CHARTER MOVEMENT IS SET ON FOOT

Movement To Solve Difficulties Which Confront City By Making Amendments To Present Charter Is Suggested.

Wildgrube Thinks Election Of Freeholders Is Only Feasible Plan—Says Freak Legislation Would Be Outcome Otherwise.

Attorney H. D. Wildgrube states that an adverse movement has been started by those opposed to the drafting of a new charter for the city of Richmond, apparently intended to thwart the efforts of those who are circulating petitions which it is intended to submit to the city council and which asks that an election of freeholders be called to outline the new magna charta.

The action of the adverse forces includes a promise that should the faction in favor of the new charter be defeated a much more satisfactory solution of problems confronting the city will be found in the making of certain amendments to the present charter.

"I am very much opposed to this plan," stated Wildgrube last evening, for various obvious reasons. If we seek to solve the problem of reconstructing the present charter it will mean that there will be a mass of amendments suggested some of which will be worse than statutes at present included in the charter. It will mean that the city will be the victim of freak legislation which will eventually have to be overcome in the manner which we are at present suggesting, namely by the framing of an entirely new charter.

"In my estimation fifteen level-headed men could certainly frame a more desirable city government than could possibly be the outcome of the other plan. With these men would lay the power of adopting any form of government they choose. If it appeared to them that a municipality they could proceed along this line. There would be no foolhardy laws enacted which would be the occasion for no end of time and money expended and eventually capped with more expense, that of holding another election to repeal them."

Organization

By C. F. Grow

Organization is the keystone of the great arch-way of human brotherhood. It is the greatest factor entering into the successful development of human society. Is the most potent, direct, and important force making for social, political and economic betterment, and it is the one essential thing needed to insure all human beings future happiness and equality of opportunity through co-operation.

The world is as human beings determine it shall be, and our happiness, our hopes, our ambitions, our life is just as we make it. Every evil as we know it and as we suffer by it is but the result of action taken by others regardless of motive.

We must all agree that certain conditions are best suited to the welfare and proper development of working people, and that when conditions are adverse to their welfare and proper development then it becomes the duty of those that recognize this dangerous adverse condition to change it.

The whole universe is but an organization of bodies and forces, and science has found that each body moving in space exerts an influence upon other bodies in proportion to its power and influence, while it in turn is under the influence of all other bodies. This is nature's law, and it governs the whole universe.

From time immemorial it has been understood that there are greater possibilities, greater chances of success and also greater protection, when people act together—when they together understandingly work to accomplish any purpose which could not be done singly. Therefore it has happened from the most remote age that the knowledge that two men are stronger than one and can accomplish things that would be impossible or one to do has given him power and superiority over every other living thing.

Every organization of human kind has proved the contention that when men organize they are always more successful than those that do not, and because of this knowledge in most of the world's greatest activities—political, social and economic—it is today an uncontrovertible fact that powerful organizations are the rule and not the exception.

We are living in an organized world. This being true, it naturally follows that those who organize are those who need it the most. Laboring people need organization most. As individuals they can accomplish nothing, and unless they are organized and have well-defined plans to improve their deplorable condition. Abraham Lincoln understood Labor's needs when he said that the greatest tie outside of the family relationship was the organization of the working people. Again he said that Labor other thing in the world; that the workers were the creators of all wealth and therefore, should be given the greater consideration; that capital was but the product of the toilers and that labor had existed prior to and should be independent of capital. Lincoln further stated that Labor was the backbone of the nation.

Organized Labor is here to stay. It is a good thing for the world that it is here, for the future condition of humanity will be largely determined by the organized workingmen and women. Organized labor has a tremendous task to perform, but it will be equal to the task. Many things will have to be done and many things are being done. Amongst the most vitally important things labor has already accomplished much.

The unemployed situation is one of the greatest problems affecting the workers. Organized labor has fought consistently to give the workers an opportunity to secure work. Hours have been reduced and will continue to be reduced until finally the time will come when there will be a job for every one who is physically able to work.

Reimbursement for labor performed is another problem that has taxed the minds of millions. Again has organized labor fought consistently to increase the wage-earners share of the products. For we know that a worker's home and his families standards depend upon his wages.

A one-dollar man has a one-dollar home, while a five dollar man has a five-dollar home.

Then there is sanitation and safety in industry, also child labor and many other most unfortunate and deplorable conditions that must be solved by organized labor.

We have heard of the evils of concentrated wealth and the unequal distribution of wealth. In the name of common sense could there be a more natural a more equal distribution of wealth, a more just distribution than by increasing the wages of the millions of toilers? They produced it or assisted in its production. This and more organized labor will accomplish as quickly as the workingmen and women respond by joining hands in this great struggle for betterment.

There also must be and there will be, more thorough work done by the local and international unions. As it is just as impossible for single unions to achieve the best results as it is for individuals so to do, there must be more co-operation among component parts of the organization, and there must at all times be evinced the willingness to accept the policy determined by the majority of unions after such a policy has been outlined and agreed to in council.

In conclusion I can but express the hope a most earnest desire—that every individual member of organized labor will strive to strengthen his union, and that each local union will affiliate and assist in building up the power of its department or central council, and that all will consistently work for the full success of the entire Labor movement, thereby speeding the day of Labor's emancipation.

AT THE RICHMOND

In the flood of thrilling romances vulgar comedies and sex dramas, it is a relief to find a good old-fashioned play like Denman Thompson's rural classic, "The Old Homestead," being adapted for the motion picture screen. This beloved old comedy-drama, which for over thirty years has held the laughter and tears of the public under its magic spell, has been adapted by the Famous Players Film company and will be the Paramount Picture at the Richmond theater today and tomorrow.

"The Old Homestead," like "Uncle Tom's Cabin," has proven its popularity and its undying interest to generation after generation of theater goers, and it is estimated by Frank Thompson, son and heir of the celebrated author-actor, from which the rights to the adaptation were obtained, that in the three decades during which the play was being presented on the stage, it was seen by over twenty million people in the United States and Canada. Though it might seem that such an estimate was too high, it must be remembered that during the entire period that Denman Thompson was presenting the play and appearing as the beloved Josh Whitcomb in person, there was at least one other company touring the country in the same play.

It is interesting to know that Thompson drew his characters from real life, and that the name Joshua Whitcomb is actually a composite of the names of two new Hampshire neighbors whom the author knew and admired. The scene of the rural portion of the drama was laid in and about the Thompson home in the farm district of the adjacent country, and every character in the play had its counterpart in real life.

Another in the series of Pathe New current events will be shown today and tomorrow. This feature is becoming one of the most popular on the bill and is especially interesting to those anxious to keep in touch with world wide events of importance.

"The Board Bill Dodgers" is a laughable Starlight comedy which will also be included on the bill for the two days.

AT PANTAGES

Fourteen beautiful girls, with wonderful gowns, the late creations of the Paris and New York modistes, in a remarkable production unique in the annals of vaudeville, wherein they appear as a theatrical attraction rather than a fashion show, is the headline feature of a big bill at the Oakland Pantages for the coming week. To say that the "Style Show" as it is called is gorgeous does not describe it;—superlatives cannot be found to describe the act. Anyone who has seen it will say so.

Besides showing the models the offering also offers a little comedy; so that every one will be satisfied. The gowns set feminine hearts a-flutter;—and the fair wearers of the gowns make the men look a bit too.

Oklahoma Bob Albright, famed as the "Male Melba," has another feature act on the bill this week. He appears in his songs;—and also in what critics call an "Exhibition of personality." He talks to his audiences—makes friends with them—and makes a big success for himself. He is unique among singers; and beloved everywhere.

Potts Brothers are comedians who look so much alike that they say they can't even tell each other apart. Their offering is one of the most, screamingly funny in vaudeville, and is known as "A Double's Double." That gives the idea. The act has proved one of the hits of New York.

Biljo Seaton is a diminutive singer with a voice and a deal of art. The Standard Brothers offer a striking acrobatic bit.

Bert Wiggins and company have a big hit. Wiggins is a former Oaklander, who went east to score success and reap fame as one of the greatest comedy jugglers the world has ever seen. Besides this he has arranged his act in a manner different from any ever seen on the stage before, and the result is that it has scored a success that has been practically universal throughout the country.

Helen Holmes appears in another installment of "The Girl and the Game" even more thrilling than the last.

Two notable acts are scheduled for production in the near future in the appearance of Bertha Gardner the English nurse and prima donna, friend and co-worker of the late Edith Cavell and the Haveman Wild Animals. These beasts and their wonderful trainer have been famous the world over. They will be brought direct from New York as Professor Haveman, being a German, refuses to play the Pantages Canadian houses.

SHE OUGHT TO KNOW

"Ma," remonstrated Bobby, "when I was at grandma's she used to let me have two pieces of cake."

"Well, she ought not to have done so," said his mother. "I am of the opinion that two pieces of cake are too much for little boys. The older you grow the more wisdom you will gain."

Bobby was silenced, but only for a moment.

"Well, Ma," he said, "Grandma is a good deal older than you are."

The weapons of all other sports are used in the game of love.

INHERITANCE TAX IS TO BE LEVIED

An inheritance tax to raise revenue is favored by United States Senator Owen, chairman of the senate banking and currency commission.

"This is never a tax upon industry" he said, "It takes from no one anything he has ever had, and it works no hardship on any individual. Our forefathers recognized that 'money is power' and forbade the settling of estates in a particular line of succession which would foster great accumulations of wealth.

"But the modern inventions of petual corporations and trusts has made it possible to develop fortunes so vast they exercise the power of life and death over millions of men women and children.

"More important than raising revenue is abating the menace of these fortunes. An inheritance tax will restore to the people who created these values gigantic sums appropriated either by fraud or by the permission and assistance of law itself.

It takes a man of the first magnitude to administer an estate of $10,000,000. No human being can properly consume the income of $500,000 a year, or $100 a waking hour, from such an estate.

"Then think of the result when a single person's fortune is estimated at $1,000,000,000, and is gathering in $50,000,000 a year of the products of labor, while millions of the laborers helping create this value cannot lay aside $500 a year.

"These great fortunes mean the deprivation of millions of people of a part of their slender incomes. The accumulated force of all these fortunes means impoverishment of the weaker elements of society."

When woman plays the game of love and forgets the rules, one thing she never forgets—the men fools.

The mind can flourish as in the summer of life, while winter may grasp the body.

The beliefs that we accept without question enslave us.
